

LIVE WELL

Chronic Disease, Chronic Pain & Diabetes Self-Management Programs

- ❖ Learn to manage your chronic health issues
- ❖ Free ongoing community based workshops
- ❖ Training and volunteer opportunities available

Developed by Stanford University, the Live Well programs are evidence based self-management workshops designed to help individuals take charge of their lives and find solutions that work best for them. These workshops support those living with on-going health issues like diabetes, chronic pain, arthritis, heart disease and anxiety. Workshop participants learn health tips and practical ways to deal with pain, fatigue, and stress.
