

LIVE WELL

Chronic Disease, Chronic Pain & Diabetes Self-Management Programs

- ❖ Learn to manage your chronic health issues
- ❖ Free ongoing community based workshops
- ❖ Training and volunteer opportunities available

Developed by Stanford University, the Live Well programs are evidence based self-management workshops designed to help individuals take charge of their lives and find solutions that work best for them. Workshop participants learn health tips and practical ways to deal with pain, fatigue, and stress. These workshops support those living with on-going health issues like diabetes, chronic pain, arthritis, heart disease, anxiety and more.
